Letter To Teachers

West Liberty, Ky., Aug. 22.

Dear teacher,

Herewith you will find the county school fair program. We urge that you read it carefully and drill your pupils for the various exhibits. I am anxious to see how much interest you can work up in your community. It all depends on your leadership. We want you to bring your pupils and parents. We plan to have a big day, dinner on the ground, music, prizes, etc. Dress up like Indians, or Westerners, come in wagons, trucks, automobiles, horse back, or any old way. Come with a smile, a laugh, a shout and full of enthusiasm. We are very anxious that every one have a delightful time. We contemplate giving a bonus to all teachers who participate actively in the county fair. We feel it is your duty to attend and to bring as many patrons as possible.

The state department has reminded them our free text books. We have received bills from the different book companies. Obviously they will be here in a few days. I was asked some time ago to send in a verified requisition for the number of books our county would need for grades 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12. I had but little definite information as to how many books would be needed, because there was the difference between the census number and enrollment number. I was surprised to find that fifteen teachers had failed to turn in their requisition. So I had to guess in those particular districts as to number of books needed. I fear our enrollment has increased and we will be forced to make a supplementary requisition. Please have the following information ready if we should need it: Number of books needed in the first three grades. I will mail you requisition blanks just as soon as they arrive. Make no allowance for those who already have books. We will give you information concerning the handling of the books later.

You probably know two of our largest high schools have been condemned. We are endeavoring to take advantage of the free labor offered by the P. E. R. A. to inaugurate a school building program. The P. E. R. A. has promised us $10,000 worth of labor if we can only furnish the material. We hope to borrow money enough from the P. W. A. to furnish the material, so we can take advantage of the free labor offered. If we borrow from the P. W. A., we only have to repay seventy per cent of it. We have many school houses to paint, to repair, and furnish with seats. We will be forced to consolidate some schools, to dig some wells, to build some coal houses, toilets, etc. It is my sincere desire to keep you informed concerning what we are trying to do. We realize the fact we need your help. We want you to help sell the program we are fostering.

We have phoned one hundred percent to the K. E. A. We feel assured that benefits you are now receiving will accrue to you to permit us to deduct fee from your salary. If you have objection please communicate same to us at once.

We have pretty conclusive information that we have been receiving in the past less coal than the contract stipulated in some instances and also an inferior quality. No contractor this year will receive his pay until he receives your approval as to amount, and quality of coal delivered. We will make no supplementary deliveries. So be sure that you devise some adequate means to make proper check on coal delivered.

Very truly yours,
O. A. HANEY
County Superintendent

Doves Not Under Federal Law
We are in receipt of a letter dated Aug. 17 from Mr. Stanley P. Young in charge of division of game management, bureau of biological survey, Washington, D. C., in which he states that the Migratory Hunting Stamp is not required for the hunters of doves; and that waterfowl is defined by the new federal statute as including ducks, geese, brant and swans.

As dove season starts within a few days, we are very anxious for each of our wardens to be in the field where there is most likely to be violations of the dove law.

Looking For A Bargain?
A European Count has gone into bankruptcy with assets of $7,200. It looks as if some American heiress might get a bargain there.

SCHOOLS FOR ALL CHILDREN

West Liberty, Ky., Aug. 22

Dear teacher:

As you know the law makes it compulsory for all children to attend school between the age of seven and sixteen inclusive. So it becomes our immediate concern. It becomes our duty as a teacher to enroll every child in your school district that is of school age and to see that they attend regularly. This will only take a little effort on your part.

Go to the home of those who are not attending school, see the parents, sit down and talk to them concerning the nature of their children, what it means to them to keep their children in school etc., make use of that personal ally which you possess together with skill and tact, then watch the results.

This is a critical period in the history of education. It rests with you teachers to determine whether or not this great Commonwealth of ours shall continue with half of its people educated and the other half so uneducated.

It is now your turn, and I believe it is your duty to give every child that is in your charge a fair chance to receive an education. The responsibility is yours for the number of books our county would need for grades 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12. I had but little definite information as to how many books would be needed, because there was the difference between the census number and enrollment number. I was surprised to find that fifteen teachers had failed to turn in their requisition. So I had to guess in those particular districts as to number of books needed. Getting On Business Basis

The Morgan County Board of Education is endeavoring to develop an efficient method of conducting its business, to know at all times its financial status. This is impossible when they have hundreds of claims floating around which have never been duly authorized. Therefore the county board deemed it necessary and advisable to have a common store house for all school supplies in the county seat and requisition these supplies to the needed districts. All the supplies will be requisitioned by the board and sent to the county seat. These supplies will be bought at wholesale prices, thereby cutting down on the purchase price. Since the present office of the county superintendent is too small for the proper administration of the business affairs of the schools the Morgan county board of education deemed it necessary to use the room occupied at the court house for the storage of the free text books, ballot boxes and other supplies. The office of the county superintendent is now located in the Cole and Cochran building over the Arnett Drug Company.

MARINE ENLISTMENTS

Macon, Ga., Aug. 27—High school graduates interested in serving in the U. S. Marine Corps and capable of passing the physical examination can be accepted during September at the Marine Recruiting Headquarters, Municipal Auditorium, Macon, Ga.

The Marine Corps is the only branch of American military service having the educational standard of graduation from high school or superior education. Having an authorized strength of only 10,000 this organization selects its applicants with care, requiring all who are admitted to present evidence of educational qualifications and of good character before they are accepted.

Their duties are performed at Marine Barracks and Navy Yards in many sections of the United States and in several foreign countries, and aboard battleships, cruisers, and airplane carriers, both in home and foreign waters.

The Liberty League

West Liberty, Ky., Aug. 22

Whatever its professed purpose, the Liberty League, formed last week in New York, is to Federalism and attack the administration of President Roosevelt. Two of that administration's hardest and most persistent critics within the Democratic party, John W. Davis and Governor Smith of New York, are among its leading sponsors.

We recall that when John W. Davis was a candidate for the Presidential nomination, Mr. Bryan said he had been fighting the battles of progressive Democracy for twenty-five years, and in all that time he had had very little help from John W. Davis. President Roosevelt might make the same observation with reference to Mr. Davis and Governor Smith since they have been President.

These two leading critics of the President have the perfect right to their opinion. No attorney stands higher as an attorney than Mr. Davis, and Gov. Smith stands high as Governor of New York. But they both represent the reactionary viewpoint within the Democratic party. If the political parties in the United States were separated by belief instead of by name, the Liberty League would be in the party of the Conservatives, while Roosevelt and those who believe with him would be in the party of the Progressives.

Another leading Democratic figure in the Liberty League is Joseph P. Kamp, whom it will be remembered was opposed by the Roosevelt forces at Chicago for permanent chairman of the national convention. Mr. Roosevelt's friends supported a great progressive and outstanding leader, Senator Walsh, of Montana and he was elected.

And so there they are, in battle array, Davis, Smith and Shouse, what a list! W. J. Bryan and Woodrow Wilson would get out of such a fight. Will they whip the same kind of Democratic in New Jersey when he is Governor of his State, Bryan beat them all at Baltimore when he nominated Wilson, and Roosevelt, mind you, will do the same thing whenever the issue is joined between his Administration and its foes under whatever name.

FARMERS' COLUMN

The Farm and Home

In making clothes for school, girls should select materials that are durable, and for garments worn next to the body, cloth of loose weave to permit evaporation and air circulation. Mercerized cotton, Peter Pan stitching, light weight muslin, cambric, and long cloth are advised. White undergarments are attractive and healthful, and may be economical.

Shoes for ordinary use should be large enough for comfort. A straight inner line and broad, low heel are characteristics that add to the serviceableness of the shoe. Dark leather oxfords of black or brown are satisfactory for sports wear. Shoes should be shaped so as to fit the contour of the foot.

Buyers often pay premium prices for clean, well-shaped eggs. In order to have clean eggs, hens should be kept in the laying house until one or two o'clock in the afternoon when the ground outside is muddy. Most of the eggs will be laid by then and the flock will have ample time to range.

Painting is the best preventive of decay of buildings, as rotting is due largely to lack of protection against weather and fungi growth. The wood becomes rough, small fissures appear and cupping, warping and twisting follows. Paint, whether bought ready-mixed or made at home, should be of good quality, and applied carefully for permanent results.

The health and attitude of the family is better if mealtime is made pleasant. Only pleasant experiences should be discussed, and teasing, quarrelling, or mention of unpleasant incidents should never be allowed. If children make some error, they should not be corrected until later, as excitement may seriously impair digestion.

Good Hay Prices

The demand for feed, as a result of drought in several states, has resulted in higher prices for hay, and should encourage the savings of as much roughage as possible in Kentucky, says a statement by Prof. E. J. Kinney of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky. He suggests that farmers consider cutting and storing all hay possible, and that they will find it profitable to use extra care in preserving corn fodder and other feeds. His statement follows:

"The good rains that have fallen over much of Kentucky during the last few weeks have brought about a remarkable growth of late hay and forage crops, particularly lespedeza, soybeans, cowpeas, etc. In spite of the short crop of red clover and ordinary grass hays, it seems quite likely that these later-maturing hay crops will bring clover hay production up to almost normal in Kentucky taking the state as a whole.

"In many sections of the United States, however, there is a very serious shortage of roughage, and in many areas practically none. In the latter cases it will be necessary to bring in large quantities of roughage in order that stock may be maintained during the winter. Undoubtedly hay prices will be good this year; in fact are good now. Hence it will pay Kentucky farmers to save as much roughage of all kinds as possible. When prices for good hay are at a high level, it is often possible and profitable to use lower grade roughage for part of the home requirements and sell the better grades.

"Many classes of stock can be maintained in good condition on roughage not commonly used in Kentucky. For example, crabgrass and mixed weeds of various kinds will be eaten during the winter very freely if cut at the proper time and well cured. It is a good plan to salt these less palatable materials when storing. Usually the best way to store such hay is to stack and allow animals to feed themselves from the stack.

"As is well known, clean, bright straw can be used as roughage in many cases. Good hay for feeding horses requiring a good grain ration and silage. Straw from thrashing lespedeza seed and thrashing soybeans is perhaps better than wheat straw in many instances. Most parts of Kentucky have good corn crops this year and even where the production of grain has been cut short, the growth of stover is good. As a rule, corn stover, or fodder as it is commonly called in Kentucky, is not utilized as fully as it might be; in fact, over much of the state the crop is not cut at all. This year because of the high price of hay, it will certainly be a good plan to save in the best manner all corn stover. To make the best stover, corn should be cut before seed ripens. This does not mean that it should be cut before the ears are mature, but before all the blades have dried up. The fodder, after husking, should be carefully shocked in good sized shocks, drawn up tightly with a rope, and firmly tied. If well shocked, the corn stover will shed rain water satisfactorily and remain in good condition until well along in the winter time. Of course, a much better plan is to husk the corn and shred the fodder. The fodder can be blown into a barn or lot and not only make very good feed but excellent bedding. If all the fodder in Kentucky is carefully saved and utilized, it will certainly permit the selling of a good deal of hay.

"Lespedeza fields that are too poor to save for seed, should by all means be cut for hay. Lespedeza hay is not only palatable and nutritious, but easily cured. It should be remembered, however, that the demand for good lespedeza seed next year probably will be active and good fields should be saved and harvested for seed. Lespedeza makes the best hay when just past the blooming stage. This is particularly true of Korean, Kobe and common can be cut later, after some seed has ripened, so that they will seed themselves.

"The greatest feeding value from soybeans is secured after the beans are rather mature. Hay from such beans, however, is not satisfactory for dairy animals or for sheep. For such uses they should be cut while the beans in the pod are still small."

THEY started up the long walk, Morris between Horowitz and Gould. Behind them, below the hill upon which the house stood, was a million-eyed twinkling vista—Hollywood.

Suddenly Morris halted. He stole a quick sideways glance at Gould, made a throat-clearing noise, and said: "Say, listen: maybe we oughtn't to gang in on him like this without warning. Suppose he's—well, that he doesn't want visitors tonight. You know what I mean?"

Gould puffed out his breath impatiently. Horowitz pointed toward the house ahead, demanding: "Look—does a guy mek private phenactings wit' de sheds opp end all de light on, once? Besides, who ever hold of S. J. fooling around, huh?"

"You're talking," Morris persisted, "about when his wife's here. What he'll do with her gone to Europe for six months is something else, maybe."

As they moved on, mounting ten steps to the broad veranda, Gould started with finality: "Well, however that may be, it doesn't appear that he's cutting any dicos this evening."

Just then the row of windows to their right went dark. Morris drew back as if encountering high voltage. "There!" he exclaimed. "What does that look like? Let's beat it!"

Over his head Horowitz and Gould exchanged glances of amused contempt. Horowitz punched the bell button. Morris groaned slightly, muttered: "Jeez, you birds got a crick! Why, S. J. I'll probably live all of us for this!"

An overhead lantern lit up and the door opened on a tall thin fellow in cutaway and wing collar.

"Ah, good evening, Graves," said Gould. "Is Mr. Farogues at home?"

"Th—no, sir, he's not," the latter seemed ill at ease. Looking past him into the room still illumined, Gould saw a tea wagon that held bottles, glasses, and what looked like a plate of small cakes. He stepped forward, doily crawling aside the reluctant Graves.

"Quite all right. I see you're expecting him back shortly. We'll wait. Come along, Jane—Frank."

Curiously, Morris' heart thumped. He sidled around to get a look inside. When he saw what Gould had seen, he muttered something, shook his head once more, then reentered behind the other two.

"Come on—let's hove," he urged; "the old boy's liable to pop in any minute now and catch us here."

"Catch us?" Gould's echo was an explosion of scorn. "Say, that's certainly rare! I thought it was rather the other way around. And I've decided not to leave. I'll stay and when he comes I'll denounce him as he deserves to be denounced. Talk of his poor, trusting wife, only two days on her way and with never a suspicion that he's a moral leper!"

Horowitz, silent since their entrance, now leaned near Gould with a perceptibly gleaming eye to exclaim: "Well, I don't know so much about his moral leopard stuff, but I got it a idea: Here's our chance to pot de screws on S. J. end mek sure from that ve hoped ve could talk him into tonight—ain't it?"

A thin smile creased the other's mouth.

"Juke, either you're smart, too, or good at mental telepathy. That's one of the chief reasons I'm staying. A man like that should be made to pay."

"Well, Morris interjected happily. "I think we ought to scream."

Gould put on his most impressive manner.

"Now, see here, Frank," he commenced; "we're three decently married men ourselves and—"

There were steps on the porch outside; a key scraped into the lock. Norris reached up and clutched Gould's shoulder.

"Listen!" he begged in a swift whisper. "There he comes! Let's run for it and get out the back way."

Without reply, Gould jerked free and dropped hastily into a chair, assuming a careless pose.

From the vestibule sounded chattering voices as the outer door closed. They came nearer; one masculine, one not. Two figures appeared in the archway, and stopped short. A split second of dead silence, then Gould sprang up and began loudly:

"Why, Mr. Farogues—really, I don't know what to say—I—"

The woman shrank back and in a choked voice cried:

"George!"

Body gone suddenly rigid, Gould peered strickenly through the half shadows, gasped:

"Edna! What in God's name—?"

Again one instant of utter stillness. Farogues had turned his back to them and stood motionless, with sagging shoulders. At last from the corner came Morris' sorrowful wail:

"See, I said you should have left. I couldn't tell you it was because your wife was with him, or you'd've smacked me. But I knew it; she told me about this date when I was out with her last night, and I just remembered it when we saw the lights go out."

Unexpected Present

Door opened to Smithers with two ladies at theater entrance—But these are Tule tickets, sir.

Smithers—Hm! That's why the fellow on the left has his coat up to his eyes.

BOB JONES' COMMENTS

"Success is reaching a goal". That, in substance, is what a prominent writer said recently about success. This may be true, or it may not be true. It depends on what a man's goal is, God has a goal for every life. Success is having the same goal for your life that God has for your life, and working with God to reach that goal.

"You can do anything you desire to do". I have heard that statement a lot of times. "Desire" is a stronger word than "wish". You may wish you had a million dollars and you may sit and mull over for somebody to bring it to you or for somebody to die and leave it to you. When you desire a million dollars you go out and work for it. Desire is wish in action. We cannot always do all we desire to do. We can do whatever God wants us to do. Any man can do anything he ought to do. God has a will for every life. The complete will of God for a human life may not always be revealed, but there is one thing plain. The Bible says that God wills to save every man. God does not want anybody to go to hell. Hell was not made for man. Hell was made for the devil and his angels. The devil was at one time an angel in Heaven. He fell. Hell is his home. We really do not belong there. If we go there we will be miserable. That is what hell is all about. Every man in his own place is happy. The first thing in the tree because that is his home. The fish is happy in the water because that is his home. Man will be happy in Heaven because that is man's home. Men are wretched in hell because they are homeless. God does not send men to hell. They send themselves to hell. God puts a cross and the blood of His Son on the road leading to damnation so man will not go to hell. If any of us go, let's go like men and when we get there let's announce to all the folks we meet that we didn't have to go. We just chose to go. We just would not have God. We would not trust Jesus. We were just mean old sinners.

Spiders Do Not Back-Track

Spiders have a definite cycle of instinctive behavior in building their webs. If a portion of the web is completed, and the spider has gone on to another phase of the web-spinning, she will not return and rebuild the first part if it is destroyed. The cycle of instinct does not permit any back-tracking.

Hectic Days Sleepless Nights

IF YOU are nervous today, you probably will not sleep well tonight. If you don't sleep well tonight, you will probably be nervous tomorrow.

Don't allow yourself to become nervous. Take Dr. Miles Nerveine. It will relax your tense nerves and let you get a good night's sleep.

Irritability, Restlessness, Sleeplessness, often lead to Nervous Headache, Nervous Indigestion, Hysteria—sometimes to a nervous breakdown and organic trouble.

Some of the people, whose letters are printed below, were as nervous as you are—possibly more so—yet they have found relief.

Three years ago I was so nervous I could not bear to go out in company and could not sleep nights. A friend recommended Dr. Miles Nerveine. I now enjoy myself thoroughly and sleep every night. Miss Juliette Currier, New Market, N. H.

I have used Dr. Miles Nerveine in liquid form and find it the best medicine for the nerves I have ever used. Christine Lanier, Middleton, Tennessee

Whenever I have over-indulged and feel restless I take one or two Nerveine Tablets just before I retire. In the morning when I awake I feel like a new person and can go about my work as usual. Dr. Miles Nerveine Tablets quiet your nerves, brace you up and are the simplest, most convenient tablets to take I have ever found. Miss Grace Redman, St. James, Minn.

Before using your Nerveine I was very nervous and irritable. Since I have started to take it I feel so much better that my family notice the difference. I still take it from time to time and the good result is wonderful. J. H. Redding, 1027 18th Ave., Rock Hill, Ill.

Ice Cream for Everyone

HAVE you noticed the great big trucks with the name of some manufacturer of ice cream painted on their sides that now speed constantly along the roads all over our country? It's a far cry from them to the time when ice cream was usually a Sunday treat and the number of kinds generally available was limited to chocolate, vanilla and strawberry.

Today there are a great number of different ice creams you can make yourself to cool down your interior during these torrid months, and you can flavor them with all sorts of fruits such as apricots, bananas, blackberries, oranges, pineapple, peaches and raspberries, and with honey, nuts, malt and macaroons.

Here are some recipes for ice creams of these flavors, few of which can be obtained from ice cream manufacturers. We have made some of them quality recipes in case you are giving a big party.

Apricots and Bananas

Apricot Mint Ice Cream: Make a puree of the apricots from a No. 2 can by pressing them through a sieve. Scald together three cups thin cream, three-fourths cup sugar and one bunch of crushed fresh mint leaves. Let cool, strain and add to the puree. Freeze as usual. Serves eight.

Evaporated Milk Banana Ice Cream: Scald four cups evaporated milk and one cup water with one cup sugar in a double boiler; add one-half cup banana pulp.

Blackberries and Oranges: Scald together the contents of a 6-ounce can evaporated milk, one-third cup sugar and two tablespoons water; then cool. Add two tablespoons lemon juice and one cup of canned blackberries, mashed and pressed through a coarse sieve. Freeze. Serves four.

Orange Ice Cream: Beat two eggs well, add seven-eighths cup sugar, two cups orange juice, one tablespoon grated orange rind and half a cup of lemon juice, and let stand until sugar is all dissolved. Add contents of three 6-ounce cans evaporated milk, color as desired with yellow coloring, and freeze. Serves eight.

To make this dish even more attractive, cut a golden yellow sponge cake into heart shapes, hollow out centers to form boxes or baskets, and fill with the orange ice. Sprinkle with candied orange peel on top.

Banano Ice Cream

Mix three cups condensed milk with one and a half cups water, and add one tablespoon vanilla. Add three cups mashed banana pulp, three cups lemon juice and three cups beaten cream. Freeze in refrigerator trays (or in ice cream freezer), and serve with aniced animal wafer standing on top of each. Serves twenty-four.

Peaches and Pineapple

Peach and Mango Ice Cream: Scald four cups evaporated milk with one cup sugar and one-half cup peach or mango pulp. Freeze as usual. Serves eight.

lemon juice, and freeze as any ice cream.

add two-thirds cup sugar and three cups thin cream, and freeze to a mush. Add two-thirds cup macaroon crumbs, and continue freezing. Serve flanked by two small meringue glasses. Serves eight to ten.

Pineapple and Banana Ice Cream: Scald together three cups evaporated milk, six cups thin cream and two and two-thirds cups sugar, and cool. Add the contents of a No. 2 can of crushed pineapple and one cup mashed banana pulp, add freeze. Serves twenty-four.

Raspberries and Honey

Raspberry Ice Cream: Scald together the contents of a 6-ounce can of evaporated milk, one-third cup sugar and three tablespoons water; then cool. Add two tablespoons lemon juice and one cup of canned raspberries, mashed and pressed through a sieve. Freeze. Serves four.

Honey and Almond Ice Cream with Meringue Chips: Scald four and a half quarts evaporated milk in double boiler, add one-third cup cornstarch which has been smoothed with four and a half cups cold water, and stir until slightly thickened. Add twelve well-beaten eggs and six cups honey. Cool. Freeze as usual, adding three cups chopped blanched almonds when half frozen. Bake small round meringues, and when cold, hollow out the centers. When serving the ice cream, top each serving with one of these meringue caps. Serves fifty.

PLEASE BE TEMPERATE

If there's a sobered group in the country now, it ought to be the repealists. Indirectly, it ought to be every other group that has been guilty of promising a sudden, vast reform, a new day and all that.

The repealists, meaning the leaders in the movement, promised to "take the money away from the bootleggers and give it to the Government, to be a source of revenue. But the bootleggers, by official reports, are doing as well as ever, maybe somewhat better than before. Revenue, national, state and local has fallen far below expectations, and there has been no tax relief, with the exception of a few federal items, which were soon more than offset by other new or increased levies.

The repealists promised to reduce or eliminate the cost of enforcement. But the cost is getting back to the usual amount. It may even exceed previous figures, and government forces may be larger than before.

The repealists promised temperance. It certainly has not come, if arrest for intoxication and for drunken driving are any indication of conditions.

So it has gone. But if temperance has not come in one direction, it at least can and should come in another. It is temperance in our national relation, moderate and sober in the making of promises. KANSAS CITY, Mo., Times.

Joe Lykins and his wife, Annie Walter, were in Lexington Saturday when she visited her mother, H. B. Walter, and with her, Mr. Lykins, and also her sister, Mrs. Lykins, and the mother of the Lykins family.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter and Mr. and Mrs. Victor and daughter, Miss Catherine visited last week with Mr. Walter's sisters, Mrs. Floyd Arnett, Mrs. W. P. Davis and Miss Moselote Walsh in West Liberty and in Canby, Mo.

Oldest Botanic Garden. The oldest botanic garden in the United States is two hundred years old. It was founded by John Bartram on the site of Philadelphia.

Burrowing Owl Lazy. The burrowing owl inhabits a burrow but will often share a shelter dug by a prairie dog or some other animal rather than dig its own home.

Here from Illinois

Mrs. W. A. McClure of Rardin, Ill., accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Rose Euston, and her son, Iuren, had been visiting relatives and friends in the county for several days. Mrs. McClure is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leander Elam, near town, and has lived in Illinois for some time. On Sunday the family connection and many friends had a family reunion at the home of S. S. Elam in Lexington. Mrs. McClure and her party left for their Illinois homes on Monday, with happy memories of the delightful days spent with Morgan county relatives.

Hints for Homemakers

By Jane Rogers

MODERN mohair velvet upholstery as used in automobiles or in furniture containing from 20,000 to 40,000 pile fibres to the square inch. This is important to the housewife and car-owner. It makes the upholstery extremely easy to clean. A whisk broom or vacuum cleaner will remove dust or dirt, since it remains loose between the pile fibres. Grease spots and stains are broken up by the countless tiny pile fibres, and ordinary cleaning fluids will remove them. The cleaning should be done by starting well outside the area of the spot and then working in a circular motion toward the center. By repeating this process, no circle of diluted grease will be left.

On hot, sultry days, when food lacks its usual appeal, tempt your jaded palate with either of these two cool sandwiches. Mix chopped Brazil nuts with cream cheese and spread on white, whole wheat or graham bread. Sprinkle lightly with salt. If the salt does not appeal, try the Amazon sandwich, which utilizes chopped Brazil in cream cheese, plus a spoonful of tart jelly to top off the spread. These large and delicious nuts can be split, sliced, shredded and chopped, and either raw or roasted are suited for flavoring many delicious sandwich spreads.
